

New Hampshire Survey
500 Likely Voters
Conducted June 20, 1999

If the election for President was held today and you had a choice between Republican George W. Bush, Democrat Al Gore, and Reform Party candidate Jesse Ventura, for whom would you vote?

46.6 George W. Bush
30.7 Al Gore
10.0 Jesse Ventura
12.6 not sure

In many states, citizens can place initiatives on the ballot by collecting petition signatures. If a majority of voters approve the initiative on election day, it becomes law. Is this a good idea?

57.2 yes
19.8 no
23.0 not sure

[Republicans only] If the Republican Presidential primary were held today, would you vote for George W. Bush, Elizabeth Dole, John McCain, Pat Buchanan, John Kasich, Steve Forbes, or some other candidate?

46.4 George W. Bush
16.3 Elizabeth Dole
10.3 John McCain
7.9 Steve Forbes
6.0 Pat Buchanan
4.2 Dan Quayle
0.6 John Kasich
3.4 some other candidate
5.0 not sure

[asked of full sample] While Governor of Texas, George W. Bush promised to support a plan to provide initiative rights for Texas citizens. However, rather than supporting initiative rights as promised, Bush allowed the State Republican Party to include a provision OPPOSING initiative rights in the state party platform.

Does this make you more or less likely to vote for George W. Bush?

9.6 more likely
38.1 less likely
52.3 no impact/not sure

[Republicans only] Knowing that George Bush said he favored initiative rights but actually worked to oppose them, whom would you vote for in the Republican Presidential primary?

35.8	George W. Bush
23.9	Elizabeth Dole
12.9	John McCain
7.9	Steve Forbes
5.1	Pat Buchanan
4.2	Dan Quayle
0.7	John Kasich
3.2	some other candidate
6.3	not sure

[full sample] Knowing that George Bush said he favored initiative rights but actually worked to oppose them, whom would you vote for in general election—Bush, Gore, or Ventura?

42.6	George W. Bush
30.6	Al Gore
11.2	Jesse Ventura
15.6	not sure

Margin of Sampling Error for full sample: +/- 4.5 percentage points with a 95% level of confidence